About

Born in San Francisco, Stefano Moris is a multi faceted product, graphic, and mixed media designer. He began his career working for Astro Studios, then from 2000 as a freelance consultant. He has worked for a wide range of clients designing products ranging from soft-goods to consumer electronics, to high end sports equipment utilising composites manufacturing. His product expertise includes initial concept exploration all the way through production surfacing for both injection molding tooling as well as composite layup tool design. His graphic design experience includes packaging, brand identity development and collaterals, website development, motion graphics, and film production.
